Spring has opened. Robins are plenty and other birds are making the day melodious with song. The bitter must be mixed with the sweet, that life may be enjoyed.

— The death of Mrs. Rhoda, wife of Loren Godfrey occurred at the residence of her mother (Mrs. Chase) in Underhill on Briday of last week. She had been sick with consumption for some time, and was but a few days ago taken in a covered sleigh and carried from her home to Underhill. Many thought her removal at that time to be an unwise act, and her death, so soon after, gives rise to much severe criticism. Her remains were brought here for interment.
